

CRSH Grantwriter Consultant

The Coalition for Restaurant Safety & Health (CRSH), is a group of hospitality & food service workers and allies who organize to achieve safer and fairer, harassment-free work cultures within our communities.

Our project was established more than five years ago based on the lack of consistent and sustainable solutions to sexual harassment in Philadelphia restaurants. CRSH is one of the first of its kind in the country, and critical to its success is the leadership of hospitality & food service workers. In coalition, we provide education through trainings, legal guidance, and resources on how workers can build solidarity and organize their workplaces against abuse. Since the pandemic began, we have grown our focus to health and safety issues affecting restaurant workers, including the right to paid sick leave, and access to free summer camps for immigrant working families. CRSH educates and organizes with workers and allies to have fair and safer restaurants in Philadelphia.
